PROCEEDINGS IN THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The bill passed allowing grain to come free of duty from Canada to be ground in American mills adjacent to the border.

The Japanese indemnity bill was taken up and laid over.

Consideration of the Mississippi river bill was resumed.

Mr. Garland withdrew his amendment asking for $15,000,000, and Messrs. Kellogg and Jonas withdrew their amendments providing for the repair of levees.

The Mississippi river bill then passed.

The anti-Chinese bill was then taken up.

After further debate the senate committee amendments were agreed to up to section 14, providing that no state court shall admit Chinese to citizenship. This was stricken out in the bill as reported, and was restored by a vote of 23 yeas to 32 nays as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Aldrich, Allison, Anthony, Blair, Conger, Davis (Ill.), Dawes, Frye, Hale, Harrison, Hawley, Hoar, Ingalls, Kelllogg, McMillan, Miller (N. Y.), Morrill, Lapham, McMillan, Platt, Plumb, Rollins, Saunders, Sawyer.

Nays—Messrs. Bayard, Beck, Butler, Call, Cameron (Wis.), Chilton, Coke, Davis (W. Va.), Fair, Farley, George, Gorman, Groome, Grover, Hampton, Hill (Col.), Jackson, Johnston, Jones, Jones (Fla.), Jones (Nev.), McPherson, Maxey, Miller (Cal.), Morgan, Pendleton, Pugh, Slater, Vest, Voorhees, Walker and Williams.

The part of section 14 providing that the words "Chinese laborers" in the measure be construed to mean "skilled, unskilled and Chinese employed in mines, was stricken out in accordance with the report of the committee by a vote of 29 to 23; Messrs. Cameron (Pa.) and Chilton and Hill (Col.), changed their votes to the affirmative.

Mr. Hoar entered an earnest protest against the passage of the measure on the grounds that it struck a blow at the dignity of labor and the dignity of American humanity.

Mr. Morgan made a long speech criticizing the veto of the president.

Without further action the senate adjourned at 5 p. m.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE.

The bill passed allowing the Sioux City & Pacific railway to build a bridge over the Missouri river by 121 notes to 97 yeas.

The house refused to take up the Lynch-Chalmers case.

The committee on patents agreed favorably to report the bill protecting innocent purchasers of patents against infringement action.

Mr. Robinson (N. Y.) expressed the opinion before closing his remarks that the rights of American citizens should be demanded, even if it became necessary to support the demand by resort to arms.

Mr. Williams, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, supported the committee, begging the house to pause before taking action so important a question while so delicate diplomatic negotiations were going on, and intimating that the party opposed to Gladstone in England would only be glad to use the American demand to increase the trouble in England on this subject. He showed that the resolution which was proposed would take from the hands of the committee not only all correspondence relating to the imprisonment of these men, but instructs the president to demand their release. Negotiations are yet going on and he hoped that within a week they will be able to report that the two men remaining in prison had been discharged. With the American house of representatives on the one hand and the British parliament on the other clamoring for action, there is danger that these delicate and prospective successful negotiations will be interrupted and broken off. He closed with a brilliant tribute to the Irish race and an expression of sympathy with it in its burdens.

Mr. Cox (N. Y.) offered a substitute for the resolution asking the president to communicate to the house any further correspondence had with Great Britain on the subject, requesting him to continue his demand on that government to give speedy trial or dismissal to American citizens unjustly held in British prisons.

Mr. Blount followed, explaining again the position of the committee having been at the desire of the state department and the president, in the belief that the work would soon be accomplished if not interfered with. He said that the criticisms on the English government and its method that had been made in the house to-day were unwise and uncalled for.

Mr. Bland (Mo.) said that if the demand for the rights of American citizens abroad brought on war he was in favor of war.

Mr. Blount stated that there were now in the possession of the committee certain facts that it would be improper to make public, but which had important bearing on the question, and the committee hoped in a few days to make a report which would show that the whole matter was amicably adjusted.

Mr. Keason called attention to the unanimity of opinion among members of the committee, with regard to party, on this subject.

Mr. Robinson (N. Y.) then rose and said it would be far from his heart and ungenerous when not to accept the cordial and kindly and yet wise spirit shown toward him and the men for whom he had spoken. He did not want to raise any cause that would stain the American flag with dishonor. If it were necessary that these men lie in jail a year longer in order that the matter may end with honor to this country, he would favor it. If it were necessary that one hundred thousand more American citizens go over and lie in British prisons in order to prevent dishonor to the American flag, he would be ready to go to lead that company. He therefore withdrew his resolution and hoped that of Mr. Cox would pass. [Applause.]

The resolution of Mr. Cox was then unanimously adopted.

Adjourned at 5:15 p. m.

Mr. O'Connor, member of the British parliament from Cork, was on the floor and listened to the discussion with much interest.

GOING TO FORTRESS MONROE.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The president, Chandler, Lincoln and Admiral Porter go to Fortress Monroe to-morrow to be present at the graduating exercises of the artillery school.

The house judiciary committee has agreed on the retirement of United States District Judge Hilliger, of New York, on account of physical inability and agreed to a resolution requesting the president to appoint another judge.

R. V. Bell, M. D., was appointed chief of the Indian division of the interior department.

The cabinet to-day formally considered the Fitz John Porter case and also discussed the question of American citizenship abroad. The president notified the cabinet that he had concluded to send a message to congress on the subject of western cowboys.

Southern republicans in the house were a good deal agitated to-night over the course of the republicans who voted with the democrats to lay over the contested election cases and take up the tariff bill. They say the contestants have been left out of their seats too long already, and they do not propose to let matters rest any longer, but will demand of their party as an act of simple justice that the cases be taken up at once.

Railway Crossing Trouble.

National Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, April 25.—A Bradford (Pa.) special says what might have been a serious riot took place at the crossing of the Rochester & Pittsburg railway over the tracks of the Olean, Buffalo & Warren railway. The officers of the latter had a gang laborers with an engine and rope to draw out piles driven by the former. During the encounter Col. Birdseye, of the Rochester & Pittsburg railway, cut the rope. Detective Willnot, leader of the opposition, drew a revolver, cocked it, presented it at Birdseye's head and would have shot if he had not been felled by a powerful blow by a laborer standing near. The city furnished the R. & P. railway people one hundred police officers to aid in quelling further disturbance. The O. B. & W. people are trying to secure an injunction and want $5,000 for the privilege of crossing.

Colse was very popular and achieved great fame for bravery during the French war in Mexico.

Diez Gutierrez, minister of the interior, now on a month's vacation, will probably be retired.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—In a quo warranto case involving the question of the power of the city council to reinstate the chief of the department, removed on trial by the mayor, the supreme court rendered judgment of ouster against Henry Heimiller, appointee of the mayor. The matter was an issue in the recent campaign, and the decision is a legal victory for the republicans.

THE LAWLESS ELEMENT.

Bridge Builders Terrorize a Massachusetts Town.

And Threaten to Burn it Next Sunday in Revenge for Arrests.

Thieves Run Off with a United States Express Wagon in Chicago.

General Notes of Crimes and Criminals.

National Associated Press.

GREENFIELD, Mass., April 25.—Bridge builders terrorized the town on Saturday night and Sunday. They threatened to burn it next Sunday in revenge for the arrest of their comrades. The citizens are preparing to give them a reception, and say that blood will flow freely if an attempt is made to carry the threat into execution. W. Fry, a victim of a stabbing affray, is still alive, but his case is deemed hopeless.

CHICAGO, April 25.—A bold robbery occurred to-day. The United States express wagon stopped in front of the Palmer house at 1 o'clock, and the driver entered the hotel to deliver a package. Upon his return the driver, J. Schibel, discovered by his diaman that the wagon was gone. It contained seventeen packages which arrived from the west to-day over the Chicago & Alton railroad, but no money envelopes. Two men always attend money deliveries. The police are searching for the stolen property. A similar robbery occurred seven years since.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 25.—John Fielder was shot and instantly killed this afternoon by Policeman Gus Rosenberg. Fielder was formerly a wealthy citizen, owning several valuable buildings, but met with one reverse after another until he became a hanger-on about an establishment kept by a wife, ostensibly a cigar store but really a house of prostitution. It is supposed that the shooting resulted from Rosenberg having reported the establishment as a disorderly house.

DAYTON, O., April 25.—A man representing himself as Col. A. M. Edwards, of Alton, Ill., and bearing what purported to be letters of introduction from the Catholic bishop of that place, attempted to victimize the Catholic priest of this city by an ingenious swindle but failed. He was more successful at St. Elizabeth hospital, where, representing himself as the executor of a former Dayton man who had died at Alton, he handed the sister in charge a draft for $500, which sum he had been borrowing from the hospital by the deceased. In return he secured as small sum from the sister to defray legal expenses.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 25.—At the opening of the Malley trial at the State Attorney Doolittle made a statement, saying he expected to show that James Malley, Jr., and Walter Malley, with Blanche Douglas, ruined Jennie Cramer, and then with the aid of others poisoned her with arsenic to end her impertunity; that James Malley, Jr., had brought her to her death to prevent disclosures which they feared on her part. The only important testimony taken was that of Dr. Burrill Silpard and Henry Painter, who swore that in the examination of the body in the morgue it was shown that the young woman had undoubtedly maintained improper relations of a recent character before her death, and that in their opinion the girl was dead before she was placed in the water, but admitted they were no experts as to cases of drowning.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 25.—Josee Baldwin, the victim of the Boardman gold robbery, states a clue has been found through the Pinkerton detective agency. Baldwin says one of the thieves is now in the Canton (O.) jail, and that the whole gang is spotted in the vicinity of Canton. It will be remembered that the National Associated Press gave an extended account of Baldwin's getting $17,000 in gold from the treasury department in Washington, the amount afterward being stolen from his house in Boardman.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 25.—Eben F. Sweetser, a drummer, last evening stood at the entrance of the opera house insulting ladies, among others the wife of Mayor Caleb Saunders, as she entered alone. She told her husband, who advised her to go out alone. He followed Sweetser caught her arm, and Saunders whipped him and had him arrested.

CHESTER, Pa., April 25.—J. H. Uden, the well known lightning calculator, killed his wife last evening, striking her on the head with a rolling pin at their farm home, twenty miles from this place. The murderer has been insane since last May.

CINCINNATI, April 25.—The cases of the saloonists arrested under the Smith Sunday law were postponed until Friday, and sixty other offenders were arrested to-day.

THE EAU CLAIRE FIRE. National Associated Press. EAU CLAIRE, Wis., April 25.—The total number of buildings consumed in yesterday's conflagration is found to be 63, and estimates of the loss range from $250,000 to $270,000, which is probably two-thirds insured. About fifty business firms were burned out, and though last night found them without a place to conduct their affairs to-day a majority of them have temporary quarters and rebuilding has already begun. But the business centre of the west side is broken up and it will be a long time before that part of the city will again assume that aspect of thrift possessed before. Everything possible is being done for those whose dwellings were burned, who are mostly people in moderate circumstances. It is impossible to describe the scene as the flames rushed along Chippewa and Water streets and the numerous cross streets, licking up every combustible substance in the rapid progress. The fire, however, was under control by midnight. Thousands of people are viewing the ruins to-day. No loss of human life occurred, which is remarkable under the circumstances.

FRANKLIN, Ind., April 25.—The building containing the Franklin hotel and the Grand opera house burned. The hotel boarders had a narrow escape. Loss, $7,000; insurance, $4,500.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., April 25.—The depot of the Old Colony railroad was destroyed by fire to-day. Loss, $15,000.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The United States spice mills, McLain Bros., owners, were destroyed by fire. Loss, $80,000. It was caused by an explosion of chemicals.

Minister Young and Bride. National Associated Press. HARTFORD, April 25.—John Russell Young, the new minister to China, was married at 5 o'clock this afternoon to Miss Julia E. Coleman, niece of ex-Gov. Marshall Jewell, the ceremony taking place at the residence of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. Jewell. Rev. Dr. G. L. Walker, of this city, officiated. The ceremony was very unostentatious, as the Jewell family are in mourning. A large number of guests from Hartford and New York were present, including Gen. and Mrs. Grant, Col. Fred Grant and wife, and U. S. Grant, Jr. There was a party of twelve others that came from New York in a special car. Gov. Jewell and Mr. and Mrs. Young sail for San Francisco for China on May 17th.

Special Correspondence of THE BEE.

LINCOLN, April 25.—Oscar Wilde lectures here to-night under the auspices of the Presbyterian ladies of this city, and a full attendance of the "all but too-toos" is guaranteed. The languid disciple of Ruskin arrived on the afternoon train yesterday, and was domiciled at the Arlington. Your correspondent went around in the evening to make the gentleman's acquaintance, and, although he started out with the expectation of having a burlesque interview with the eccentric foreigner, he wholly abandoned the idea before he left. If your correspondent is entitled to an opinion on this subject, he considers Oscar Wilde as brilliant a man, intellectually, as he has lately met. The man's appearance as he greeted the reporter pleasantly by name was striking. He was stretched out lazily upon the bed, with a large bearskin robe drawn over his legs. His dress was neat and not especially out. The long, dark hair, oval face and small mouth give him a decidedly effeminate appearance, though there was not the slightest visible trace of the sensuality so much alluded to by eastern correspondents. He talked rapidly and with excellent choice of language, proving himself a most excellent conversationalist and an entertaining host. During the interview he pulled away vigorously at a strong cigar in which he seemed to find much relief.

"I have come here from Atholism," he stated in response to a question, "having lectured at Topeka, Denver and several other points in Kansas and Colorado. My trip to the Pacific coast has been one of supreme gratification to me. I should be contented to take up my residence there permanently. San Francisco I consider the most interesting subject beautiful of all American cities. Its location could not be surpassed. I lectured in that city four times, and at Oakland twice, having large and enthusiastic audiences. I also delivered lectures at San Jose, Stockton and Sacramento. I lectured twice at Denver and once at Leadville, at the latter place addressing an immense crowd of miners. The theme of my lecture there was "Handicraft" and I appealed to their sympathies and won their entire good will. In regard to my future plans, I expect to deliver a number of lectures between here and Chicago, reaching that city about next Sunday. Then I intend to go to Canada for a season, after which I will lecture for the second time in Boston and Philadelphia, and about the end of June will give a final lecture at New York, sailing thence to England and after a little recreation I expect to go to Japan. There is a glorious feast of artistic treasures awaiting me there." Mr. Wilde then started off on a long and enthusiastic description of Japanese art.

In taking his departure, the reporter said, "Mr. Wilde, do you think that you could instill some of your artistic principles into the members of the Nebraska legislature? At the last session they passed a bill providing that all the sundowners along our highways should be cut down."

"Is that a fact?" asked the aesthetic in astonishment. "If I had known that I think I should either have cancelled my engagement here or else engaged to lecture half a dozen times."

The impression which your correspondent took away with him after an hour's chat with the gentleman was that he was a man of great intellectual strength, in spite of numerous drawbacks in appearance and manner. However much opinions may differ on this point, he is certainly brainy enough to tell Nebraska a great many things worth knowing in the special province to which he has so long applied himself.

The full amount necessary to secure the location of the State Home for the Friendless has been raised by Lincoln, and the institution will, no doubt, be put under way very soon. Over $200 was raised by means of an entertainment given at the Oriental (erstwhile the redoubtable Tichenor), where a large crowd assembled last evening and enjoyed the supper and dancing to the fullest extent. This is another permanent annual appropriation secured for the languishing Capital City. Quite a number of apartments at the leading hotels have already been engaged for the coming legislative session. A general opinion is expressed that the session will last three or four weeks and the innkeepers of Lincoln heartily wish that it might be so.
